choosing the color. If you want your home to feel updated and fresh, consider trying one of the fall's top paint trends. Whether you need to paint a living room, bedroom, hallway, or even a powder room—brush on one of these paint colors interior designers predict will be popular for fall 2023.

Fall is almost here and if your home needs a refresh, there's no better way to do it than with a brand new coat of paint. The hard part is that makes a statement, and dark paint is a simple way to evoke moodiness," she explains. "As we move into autumn, we predict that shades of brown will continue to take over. From chocolate brown to lighter, more mushroom-colored tones, brown is definitely having a moment. Some of our current favorites are Hasbrouck Brown, Plymouth Rock, and Smokey Taupe by Benjamin Moore."

Interior designer Audrey Scheck sees dark colors such as brown hues being on trend this fall. "Designers are going bold with wall-to-wall color

"This color has whimsical properties to the eye. It has found a way to lean both green and blue. It also acts as a more interesting form of gray in darker spaces. Consider it the mood ring of wall colors, and it is quite moody!" Was this page helpful?
